Amount after deductions	=	1,000.00 – (30.00 + 2.10) THB
Total amount the merchant receives	=	967.90 THB

6

Q Does Ksher transfer the settlement amount for each e-wallet at once?

A No, Ksher transfers the settlement amount for each payment channel separately. This approach allows merchants to easily review settled transactions from each channel.

For example, if a merchant has 4 payment channels with Ksher, they will receive 4 separate transfers.

7

Q Do we support refund? What about MDR fee?

A See details below;

Payment Channels	Transaction before cut-off time			Transaction after cut-off time
	Full Refund	Partial Refund	MDR fee return	Full Refund	Partial Refund	MDR fee return	Refunds Available Within
	Promptpay and Mobile Banking do not support refund
	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	180 days
	✓	-	✓	✓	✓	-	-
	✓	-	✓	-	-	-	30 days
	✓	-	✓	✓	✓	-	180 days
	✓	-	✓	✓	✓	-	180 days
	✓	-	✓	✓		✓	30 days

If merchants need to issue a refund after the cutoff time, they have two options:

- 1) Wait for a new transaction from the same payment channel to ensure sufficient funds are available in the merchant account for the refund.
- 2) Alternatively, the merchant can transfer the required refund amount to Ksher's account. Ksher can top-up the transferred amount into merchant's account, so merchant can issue refund to customer(s).

8

Q Does Kher charge for settlement to merchant's bank account?

A No, however, Ksher requires a minimum transfer amount, which is 100.00 THB for each channel separately (after MDR deduction)

Example: A merchant has opened three payment channels and has received the following amounts:

- PromptPay: 110 THB
- TrueMoney: 90 THB
- WeChat Pay: 30 THB

Only the funds from PromptPay will be transferred according to the regular settlement schedule. For TrueMoney and WeChat Pay, the funds will be settled once the total reaches the minimum requirement of 100 THB.
